

M · MONITOR

the old map

An encounter with the understanding you've been navigating by — and where it has stopped matching the territory.

🕒 10 MINUTES

THE MESS

1. Think of a situation that keeps feeling confusing or stuck. Write it down in one sentence.
2. Ask: what did you used to think about this that no longer quite fits? Write that down — the old explanation, the old story, the old assumption.
3. Notice whether you have been trying to force the old understanding back into place, or waiting for a new one to arrive fully formed.

Notice: what it feels like to name the gap without immediately trying to fill it.

NO OUTCOME REQUIRED.
