

M · MONITOR

what the soil already knows

An encounter with the conditions you are already living inside that you stopped noticing a while ago.

🕒 10 MINUTES

THE MESS

1. Go outside or to a window. Find something growing without your help — a weed, a volunteer plant, something in a crack. Just look at it for two minutes.
2. Write one thing it tells you about the conditions where you live — sun, neglect, moisture, disruption. Let the plant be data.
3. Ask: what in your own life is growing without your help right now?

Notice: whether the unmanaged growth is the most honest data you have.

NO OUTCOME REQUIRED.
