searching for the best

An encounter with the exhaustion of not being able to stop comparing.

🕒 10 MINUTES

THE MESS

1. Simon argued that searching for the best is itself a cost — one most people forget to account for. Name one area of your life where you are still searching for the optimal answer. A decision, a path, a version of yourself.
2. Write down how long you've been searching. Be honest.
3. Don't resolve it. Just sit with this: what has the search cost you so far?

Notice: the difference between genuine discernment and the performance of thoroughness.

NO OUTCOME REQUIRED.
