the easy win

An encounter with the shortcut that hits the number but misses the point.

🕒 10 MINUTES

THE MESS

1. Pick a number you're expected to hit, at home or at work: a count, a quota, a target, a streak.
2. Notice a shortcut you've slipped into that moves the number without doing the real thing. Padding a report, busywork that looks productive, hitting the step count by pacing the kitchen.
3. Do the honest version once instead, even if it scores worse. Aim at the goal the number was standing in for.

Notice: how often the easy way to win the number is the long way from the goal.

NO OUTCOME REQUIRED.
