

M · MONITOR

the score you keep

An encounter with a number that started running the show.

🕒 10 MINUTES

THE MESS

1. Name a number you check often, at home or at work. Steps walked, hours billed, likes, weight, money saved, emails cleared. Write it down.
2. Underneath that number, what were you actually after? Write the real thing in plain words: feeling healthy, doing good work, staying close to people.
3. Be honest about the last week. Did you serve the number, or the thing underneath it? Note one moment where the two pulled apart.

Notice: how easy it is to keep score and forget what the score was ever for.

NO OUTCOME REQUIRED.
